

MARIA'S WEDDING DAY

Maria was delighted with her fiancé's suggestion that everyone should come to their wedding in animal costume. On the day, the groom looked striking in his lion outfit and Maria made an elegant antelope.

Everything went smoothly until the Jones teenagers - dressed as stags - locked horns over the Butterworth girl. Things worsened when the vicar, in full border collie gear, began to sniff the bridesmaids' bottoms and tried to herd them into the vestry. But it was the moment in the hotel room when the groom pounced on her and golloped her whole, that Maria realised she had made a big mistake.

Story by Becky Cherriman